Health secy fails to satisfy court on medicine procurement procedure

By Waseem Shamsi

SUKKUR: A constitutional bench of the Sindh High Court at Sukkur has expressed anger over the health secretary's responses on medicine procurement.

The bench, comprising Justice Zulfiqar Ali Sangi and Justice Abdul Hameed Bhurgri, was hearing a petition concerning the appointment of the health secretary.

The honorable bench asked the health secretary as to from where were the medicines purchased for government hospitals and at what cost?

Whereupon Health Secretary Rehan Baloch failed to provide a satisfactory answer to the honorable court.

He informed the court that various committees had been formed for the procurement of medicines and those committees purchased drugs according to the need.

Justice Zulfiqar Ali Sangi said: "Our question is very simple as to from whom and for how much were the medicines purchased? Will a committee also be formed to answer this very simple question?"

Justice Zulfiqar Ali Sangi said: "People come to hospitals for healing, but they end up contracting other diseases."

Honorable Justice Zulfiqar Ali Sangi said: "There is a petition stating that medicines are not available in the hospital."

When the Civil Hospital Naushahro Feroze MS stated: "People come to take medicines from government hospitals merely out of their hobby." Whereupon the court expressed anger over his answer and ordered him [MS] to leave the rostrum.

"People are not getting common medicines, and you are misleading the court," remarked justice Zulfiqar Ali Sangi.

"Used syringes are being utilised at NICVD (National Institute of Cardiovascular Diseases", Justice Zulfiqar Ali Sangi remarked and added that hospital waste was thrown next to the boundary walls of the healthe facilities.

The health secretary assured the honorable court: "I have learned about this today; we will take action on it."

Whereupon honorable Justice Zulfiqar Ali Sangi asked: "Mr Secretary, are you learning about everything and every matter only today?"

During the hearing, the health secretary responded that the MS of the Civil Hospital Sukkur had been removed.

Whereupon Justice Zulfiqar Ali Sangi said: "Why is action taken just one day before the hearing? And why is action not taken earlier?"

Honorable Justice Zulfiqar Ali Sangi inquired about the matter of medicines worth millions of rupees being found in a bungalow.

Health Secretary Rehan Iqbal replied: "The matter is being inquired into, and the drug inspector has been removed from his post."

Consolidated petitions

During the hearing of a case about faulty machinery, medicine shortages and corruption in the health department, the honorable court inquired about the faulty CT scan and MRI machinery in the Civil Hospital of Sukkur, which had been repaired for Rs80 million.

The court asked the secretary: "Rs80 million have been wasted in eight days. What are you people doing?"

During the hearing, former MS Dr Ikhtiar Mirani informed the honorable court that the MRI machine was purchased for Rs300 million but it became faulty within eight days.

Justice Abdul Hameed Bhurgari said: "When you buy an item worth one thousand rupees for your home, you ask for a warranty, so why don't you ask for a warranty when purchasing a machine worth Rs80 million?"

The court was informed that the MRI machinery's tender was issued in 2023, repaired in 2025, and it became faulty a week later.

The court ordered the secretary to visit the civil hospital, conduct a review and submit a report.

During the hearing, the court had asked the secretary to explain how medicines were purchased and demanded a copy of the tender documents. But the health department officials failed to present the tender copy to the court.

The court issued a written order and adjourned the hearing.

Petitioners' lawyers Shabbir Shar and Gulzar Almani, and Additional Advocate General Sindh Ali Raza Baloch, Secretary Rehan Baloch, new Civil Hospital Sukkur MS Ahmed Mujtaba and other relevant officials were present in the court.

Students from 32 Larkana primary schools showcase their talent

Clad in colourful dresses, children perform tableaus based on Shah Latif's verses

By Our Correspondent

LARKANA: Dozens of young children from 32 primary schools across the four talukas of Larkana district showcased their talent the other day at an Early Childhood Care and Education (ECCE) talent show and fair.

The event was organised by the district primary education department at a local marriage hall.

Chairman District Council Aijaz Leghari and Deputy Commissioner Larkana Dr Sharjeel Noor Channa were the chief guests. They took great interest in the children's projects, which creatively reflected lessons from their textbooks. With the guidance of their teachers, the children not only prepared impressive displays but also confidently explained them to visitors.

The hall, filled to capacity, echoed with applause for their abilities and self-assurance.

Dressed in traditional clothing, the children performed a variety of tableaus, from the verses of Shah Latif Bhittai to the poetry of Allama Iqbal. They also presented mathematical concepts in artistic ways, which showed the hard work and creativity of their teachers.

The event was organised in line with the new early childhood education syllabus in Sindh, said District Education Officer (Primary) Anis-ur-Rehman Jalbani.

Thirty-two schools, 16 for girls and 16 for boys, were selected to take part after earlier competitions held at the taluka level.

According to the district education officer, this was the first event of its kind in Sindh based on the new syllabus, where theories were brought to life.

Many of the participating schools were from remote areas and lacked basic facilities, yet their students performed with enthusiasm.

Every participating student will receive a Rs1,000 award and shields and certificates will be given to the winners and runners-up.

Second phase of project for out-of-school kids launched

expansion aims to facilitate access to digital learning for approximately 30,000 out-of-school children, greatly expanding the programme's reach," he added.

CEO and founder of Teach the World Foundation Shafiq Khan said, "At Teach the World, we believe that our single greatest issue is the vast number of children who are out of school. We are singularly focused on solving that problem."

He added that their solution tackles both the shortage of teachers with a game-based curriculum delivered on tablets and the deficit of schools through their Micro School model, which could be established in weeks at very low cost.

With the support of the Sindh government, they managed to launch 125 digital schools in under 18 months.

At the end, the chief minister inaugurated 100 schools by clicking a button on a laptop.

100 'Micro Schools'

According to the midterm evaluation by an independent firm, the ADLP pilot programme has demonstrated significant progress. A total of 100 Micro-Schools and 25 In-School digital classrooms have been established, enrolling more than 11,000 children across both models.

Micro-Schools, set up as single-room community learning centres, operate in four daily shifts, each offering a two-hour, self-paced, tablet-based digital learning cycle.

ocated in low-income urban and peri-urban settlements with high concentrations of out-of-school children.

The evaluation reports notable improvements in foundational learning among Micro-School participants who have completed at least nine months in the programme. Girls have outperformed boys, reflecting a positive gender-equity impact.
